

BLUE LETTER

The University of Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service Monthly Letter

No. 3757 • May 2015

FROM THE DIRECTOR

Arkansas delegations make a big impression in Washington

Arkansas had a chance to double-team the state's Congressional offices last month, sharing key points about the strength of Extension's programs. Sherri Sanders, Jerri Lephiew, Lisa Washburn, Amy Simpson and Keith Cleek were in the nation's capitol for PILD, the Public Issues Leadership Workshop held by the Joint Council of Extension Professionals. At the same time, a group of 4-H members were in D.C. as part of the National 4-H Conference. Members of both groups met with Congressional aides, each having a chance to make specific points about extension's programs.

The group emphasized to the Congressional staff the need for continued support of Smith-Lever funding and in return, heard messages of support.

The adults had breakfast with aides and later, the adults and youth, in various combinations were able to have photos taken with Reps. Rick Crawford and Steve Womack and Sens. John Boozman and Tom Cotton. The extension reps, along with chaperones Brian See and Leadra Martin, then hosted lunch with aides from Boozman's and Cotton's office. Both aides heard about each program area and county programs.

Lephiew summed up the message the group delivered to our elected representatives in the U.S. House and Senate: "Extension is a big deal." We appreciate the time spent by our agents and youthful advocates for making sure Extension remains a big deal.

Educational partner is finalist for ENVY award

The Lake Fayetteville Environmental Science Center, a water quality educational partner with the Cooperative Extension Service, was a finalist for this year's ENVY Award.

The ENVY Award trophy was established in 2005 by the Arkansas Department of Environmental Quality to recognize a major contribution by an individual or organization for efforts to enhance and protect Arkansas' natural resources. The center, formerly known as the Aquatic Center, has been a cooperative effort between the Fayetteville and Springdale School Districts since 1974.

Gerontological Society recognizes Extension employees

The University of Arkansas Cooperative Extension Service was well represented at the awards ceremony during the Southern Gerontological Society's annual meeting in Williamsburg, Virginia, in April 2015.

Betty Oliver won the Best Practices Award for her work with the Arkansas Extension Homemakers Clubs. SGS offers the Best Practices Award to recognize outstanding and sustained applied practices that contribute to the quality of life of older adults.

Laura Connerly and Kerry Rodtnick were the winners of the Media Award for their video podcast series, Small Steps to Health and Wealth. The Media Award from SGS recognizes an outstanding media contribution to further understanding of aging and health in the region and to the mission of SGS.

The Applied Gerontologist Award was awarded to LaVona Traywick. This award is given to a SGS member in the field of applied gerontology. Award winners have a sustained record of leadership in the field of aging, are recognized in their fields, and have positively impacted the quality of life of older persons through developing innovative programs and delivery. ■

White County WHEP team brings home 1st and 2nd

White County 4-H brought home first- and second-place trophies and had three of the top five individuals in the state WHEP (Wildlife Habitat Education Program) contest April 24 at the U of A Rice Research and Extension Center in Stuttgart.

Eight junior 4-H members and one cloverbud member from White County competed in activities ranging from wildlife management practices to wildlife identification.

The first-place team consisted of Savannah Watkins, April Mills, Alexis Canter and Isabella Davis. The second-place team was Letah Joe Eversole, Callie McDaniel, Madison Taylor and Carson McFtridge. Isabella Davis was second-place overall individual, Letah Joe Eversole placed third overall individual and Savannah Watkins placed fourth overall as an individual.

The teams were coached by 4-H adult volunteer leaders Crystal Eversole, Misty Watkins, Krista Brimer and Shaula Mills. ■

“As home to the Lake Fayetteville Watershed Partnership, the study center has been a beacon for raising awareness about environmental stewardship and helping citizens learn more about the important resources the Lake Fayetteville Environmental Study Center provides to the community,” said Washington County Extension agent Colin Massey, who wrote a letter of support for the center’s nomination. Massey works with the center to coordinate semiannual Lake Fayetteville cleanup events. This year’s ENVY winner was three-time runner-up, the City of Fayetteville. ■

4-H Center upgrades lodging, menu offerings

At the C.A. Vines Arkansas 4-H Center, there are changes you can touch, taste, feel and surf. J.J. Pitman, 4-H Center director, said the center's lodging rooms now have fresh color, new carpet, bedding and curtains and TVs have been added in two lodging units.

In addition, "we're now serving up hot, fresh and complementary cinnamon rolls at 10 a.m. and popcorn at 2 p.m. for adult guests," he said. "We have new meal choices that put the emphasis on fresh and light."

Those choices include the new garden bar with more than 20 toppings and house-made ranch dressing. There's also the new homemade soup station and new homestyle entrees including tilapia with fresh mango salsa, chicken spaghetti, chicken Cordon Bleu and down home meatloaf, just to name a few.

Those who use our facilities will be happy to know we have new fiber optic lines and plan to have faster, more reliable wi-fi by July. ■

Faulkner Co. 4-H takes center stage at performing arts event

The annual Faulkner County 4-H Performing Arts contest, held April 21, featured the talents of 17 performers and ten different acts. The event was held at Salem Place Nursing Home in Conway and was emceed by Faulkner County 4-H Teen Leader president Leila Joy Richardson.

4-H Program Coordinator Leigh Helms said the "annual event provides 4-H members, ages 5-19, an opportunity to build confidence and communication skills. Having the event at Salem Place provided an opportunity for youth to develop and share their talents with the residents while highlighting the 4-H Youth Development Program."

The 4-H Program will return to Salem Place on May 14 for the County 4-H Fashion Revue Contest. ■

BENEFITS CORNER

Changes to UA System Health Plan

Employees currently enrolled in the UA System health plan:

Employees enrolled in the UA System's health plan (UMR) will see a 12% premium increase effective July 1, 2015. There will also be plan design changes. Due to the increase, the following changes may be made to existing elections from May 4 to close of business on May 22, 2015: Moving from the POS to Classic Plan, dropping spouse or dependent coverage or ending health plan participation. If you choose to end your participation with the UA System health plan and you do not enroll in other health coverage, there may be a tax penalty associated with federal health care reform requirements. Adding coverage is not an option unless you have a qualified family status change.

The UA System will also conduct an eligibility audit of dependents enrolled in the health plan. You will receive a letter from a third-party verification service notifying you of the audit process and required documents you must provide to complete the verification. Employees who need to make corrections to end ineligible dependent coverage can do so without penalty during the same election period listed above.

Detailed information has been mailed to you by U.S. Postal Service mail.
